

Treasure

Charcoal on Paper

Craig Hawkins

In the drawing, Treasure, a family portrait is presented as a landscape. Like a sunrise giving light, unity, and strength to the land the arcing lines form a connection between each person in the family. The intent of this piece was to display the invisible emotional and spiritual connections within a family unit. Our heart makes it's home in what ever we treasure most. Whenever that treasure is a person we are always connected to them no matter the physical distance.
