

Within Him Without Her

Oil on Canvas

Joyce Lee

I create mental landscapes that house the tension between Nature and manufactured Culture, chaos versus control, and inner turmoil opposed to outward poise. Playing on how micro observations and experiences relate to human existence in the macro cosmos, I reference imagery of extreme perspectives—from telescopic photos to cellular patterns.

I aspire to capture the uncanny and violent but beautiful intrusions into human lives that reflect spiritual displacement. The results are cosmic and grandiose as well as intimate and infinitesimal views of my mind's eye.
